

DUXBURY HISTORY FILE REFERENCE

The Duxbury Bay Maritime School dropped anchor recently on its summer season of teaching youngsters sailing skills. Some moments captured on those last days (clockwise from top): Dinghies were rigged on the school's float at Snug Harbor in Duxbury as the students prepared to sail for class; students sailed solo upwind; instructor Nick Merry watched as students rounded a mark; and 12-year-old Tim Dahlen of Duxbury unriggered a 420 Class sailboat at the end of his class.

